Bay endorses Magic bond

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis City Council agreed Thursday to endorse an $11 million industrial revenue bond for Casino Magic's golf course construction.

The action costs city government nothing — except sales tax revenue on any construction materials in the project, officials said. Mayor Eddie Favre said from a practical standpoint, city merchants aren't likely suppliers for the project anyway.

Favre told council that the casino was poised to begin construction of its 18-hole course when officials discovered that a previous industrial revenue bond issue had expired.

The mayor said Casino Magic had gotten authorization two years ago to borrow up

Bay-Waveland School Board to appeal ruling

BY RICHARD MEEK
The Bay-Waveland School Board voted Wednesday night to appeal a hearing officer's ruling in the case of Bay Middle School student Lizzie Richardson. The board will appeal the ruling to the Federal District Court in Gulfport.

In a personnel matter, superintendent Paul Tisdale appointed former Bay Junior High School Principal James Baldree as assistant principal at Bay High School. The school system voted in February to merge the junior high and high schools for the upcoming school year.

Board attorney Ronnie Artigues Jr. said hearing officer David Walker's decision was "factually and illegally correct." Because of the pending litigation, Artigues did not elaborate. Board member Richard Flowers echoed Artigues' sentiments when he made a motion to appeal the ruling.

Following the meeting, Geraldyn Richardson, Lizzie's mother, refused to comment to The Sea Coast Echo.

Earlier, she had been denied a request to speak to the board concerning her daughter's case. Board attorney Lucien Gex told Geraldyn Richardson the issue was a legal matter, and the proper way to communicate would be "to have your lawyer (American Civil Liberties Union attorney Harry Yoste of Gulfport) to contact me or (Artigues). That is the proper ethical and legal way to do things."

"I don't think it would be

Bay beach construction to begin

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Construction of a Bay St. Louis beachfront is expected to start immediately, with workers mobilizing to pump a 200-foot-wide strand between Booker Street and Bay View Court.

Final authorization for the project came Thursday night in a special meeting of City Council — only hours after county officials agreed to pay more than half the tab for the $690,000 project.

Meeting in an unofficial workshop session, the Board of Supervisors agreed to re-allocate $375,000 from the county sand beach/seawall tax fund to the city's project.

They did so after agreeing they had set aside far too much to build two comfort stations. The board also was convinced it won't need the construction money it had tentatively set aside for boardwalks this year, $175,000.

All the pieces of the project finally came together only after an intense and prolonged effort among city staffers and Mayor Eddie Favre.

The city delegation that showed up to urge county help Thursday included Leo W. Seal

Jr., CEO and chairman of the board of Hancock Holding Co., which owns Hancock Bank. Seal said his bank would be more than happy to help the county finance part of the beach renewal program, with bonds repayable over a five- or six-year period.

A lifelong resident of the city, Seal recalled the devastations of hurricanes in 1947 and 1969, saying the proposed beachfront would help avert similar disastrous destruction to the downtown.

Seal also warned that with a valid permit in hand for the project, officials should launch the project as soon as possible. He reminded the board that more than a mile of the county's own renourishment project last year was aborted by state officials' concern over the presence of sea grass in one stretch of Waveland.

As Seal listened to a subsequent exchange of figures between city and county officials, he appeared to grow impatient. He suggested Favre accept the $375,000 that the board seemed willing to offer. "Can't we compromise, Eddie, and get the damn thing done?" Seal asked.

Ranger arrested on sexual charges

BY RICHARD MEEK
A McLeod Park ranger was arrested on sexual charges involving relations with a four-year-old girl that allegedly happened in 1984 and 1985.

Alton Lumpkin, 58, of 10060 Harvey Road in Leetown, was arrested on two counts of sexual battery and one count of fondling, Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson said. Peterson said two of the incidents allegedly took place at Lumpkin's home and one at a residence on Anna Road.

Lumpkin was released Friday on $25,000 bond. A court date has not been set.

The case is being investigated by Hancock County Sheriff Investigator Glenn Strong and social workers from the Department of Human Services, Peterson said.

Highway 603 corridor needs controls, officials agree

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Members of the Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commission appeared to agree Wednesday the city needs some controls over future development of the Highway 603 corridor.

The unincorporated area is part of a potential Phase I annexation move by the city, outlined in a proposed comprehensive development plan. The commission dove into details of the plan Wednesday night, holding the first of a series of sessions that will lead to a final draft of the proposal. Planner Les Fillingame said the only part of the plan not currently on the table is the portion dealing with annexation. The plan necessarily considers the developing area immediately adjoining the city limits, said Fillingame.

What's considered as a most likely area for annexation, he said, is the area bounded by Highway 603 and Longfellow Road. It encompasses several existing residential subdivisions, and the 603 route that's being converted to a four-lane divided highway.

That area, said Fillingame, will "have substantial impact on Bay St. Louis," he said, and is "very much in need of direction."

He noted that while the county has a planning commission, it lacks a zoning code.

Commission Chairman Tommy Chapman said the area "could explode" with development that may adversely impact the city. Officials said even if the city doesn't annex the area, it may try to negotiate an arrangement with the county.

Depot bids opened

BY MARY G. SEILEY
J.O. Collins Contractor, Inc., was the low bidder last week on work to renovate the historic Bay St. Louis depot.

Collins offered a bid of $771,585 for the work to transform the two-story Spanish mission style building into a center for area transit services, a civic center and library.

Placing second in the bid lineup was Saad & Cooke Corp., at $861,317, followed by H. Gordon Myrick, Inc., $874,315. Blanchard Construction Co. had the highest bid, $961,000.

The depot project, funded primarily through a federal transportation grant, has been in the works for several years.

City Council must take action on the bids before construction can begin, and officials hope the work will be completed by the end of the year.

ty to control development as it occurs.

Fillingame said the annexation outline will be added to the overall comprehensive plan before it's put up for public hearing.

In other discussions Wednesday, the commission quizzed Fillingame on the likelihood of an additional casino locating in the Cedar Point area, a neighbor of Casino Magic's vast holdings.

Fillingame downplayed the possibility that the Cedar Point tract would ever develop as casino property. "I don't think it's going to happen ... there's been a lot of smoke blown, but nothing ever happens."

He noted a legal dispute exists over ownership of the property, and said the agreement under which it was annexed forbids using North Beach Boulevard as an access route.

Asked by one commissioner why Casino Magic doesn't buy up the tract and avert competition from Gaming Corporation of America, Fillingame said: "I think that's the only reason they keep coming forth with plans ... to try to up the price."

The commission agreed to meet again Monday in a workshop session to review the comprehensive development plan. Officials hope to hold a public hearing on the document in September, and have formal recommendations for City Council by Oct. 1.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Little danger Republicans will take over Legislature

There appears to be little danger that the Republicans will take over either branch of the Mississippi Legislature in this year's elections as they did last year in North Carolina and South Carolina.

But the GOP could gain legislative strength, moreso, if Gov. Kirk Fordice wins reelection, since he more than any governor in memory pushes partisan politics.

However, legislative races statewide seem to be rattling along as usual independent of the state political scene, with personalities and local issues the main ingredients in the campaign process. At least that's the case now, subject possibly to some change in November when state politics will kick in more.

Republicans now hold 32 seats in the 122-member House and 19 seats in the 52-member Senate. The GOP is expecting to gain at least six to eight seats, mostly picking up some of the 11 open legislative seats, formerly occupied by Democrats. Several seats now held by Republicans, however, could go back to Democrats, local observers say.

Somewhat remarkably, 51 House members face no opposition and are automatically reelected and 15 Senators have been given a free ride. The lack of more contested races seems partly due to the early qualifying deadline last March which caught some by surprise.

Once again, a significant subplot in House races is the election of the next speaker of the House. Tim Ford wants to keep his job as Speaker and he is "monitoring" House races statewide with a cadre of about a dozen supporters who have no opposition.

At the moment, Ford faces no certain opposition to regain the Speakership, but one or two foes could emerge. Some House members feel that Rep. Billy McCoy (D-Rienzi) has more votes than Ford if he wants to run. Also, admittedly, "looking at" the possibility of getting into the Speaker's race later on is Rep. Cecil Simmons (D-Maben), who was dumped four years ago as Speaker Pro Tem after having spearheaded the 1987 House revolt which brought Ford to power.

The Speaker Pro Tem spot, now occupied by Rep. Robert Clark (D-Ebenezer), again figures into the House picture. There appears to be a movement to dump Clark, the first black to reach a position of legislative leadership. The movement to dump Clark, which may have Ford's blessing, is largely pushed by Republicans who want one of their own members in the number two House spot.

Since it appears likely the GOP will have more votes than the Black Caucus next year, the dump Clark effort may succeed. Ford, if it becomes an issue, could risk alienation of his black Democratic colleagues who he may need to regain this speakership.

Ford, who a couple of years ago had been cozying up to the Republicans, is currently out of favor with the GOP because of his recent interest in rebuilding the state Democratic Party left in shambles by departed Democratic State Chairman Ed Cole. Several incumbents, both Republicans and Democrats, are believed in danger within their own party primaries of being unseated on Aug. 8.

One of the most fascinating is in Senate District 20 of Rankin and Hinds counties, where Sen. Mike Gunn, the far-right Republican with documented ties to Louisiana's David Duke, the former Ku Klux Klan grand dragon, is facing a heavy challenge from Charlie Ross, of Brandon, for the GOP nomination. Ross, 39, is an ex-Air Force pilot who resigned as chairman of the Rankin County Republican Committee to take on Gunn.

Among the measures Gunn has pushed in the Legislature was a bill to require welfare mothers to be fitted with a Norplant device to prevent pregnancy. Gunn was identified as the producer of campaign literature for Duke when Duke was running against Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards in 1991.

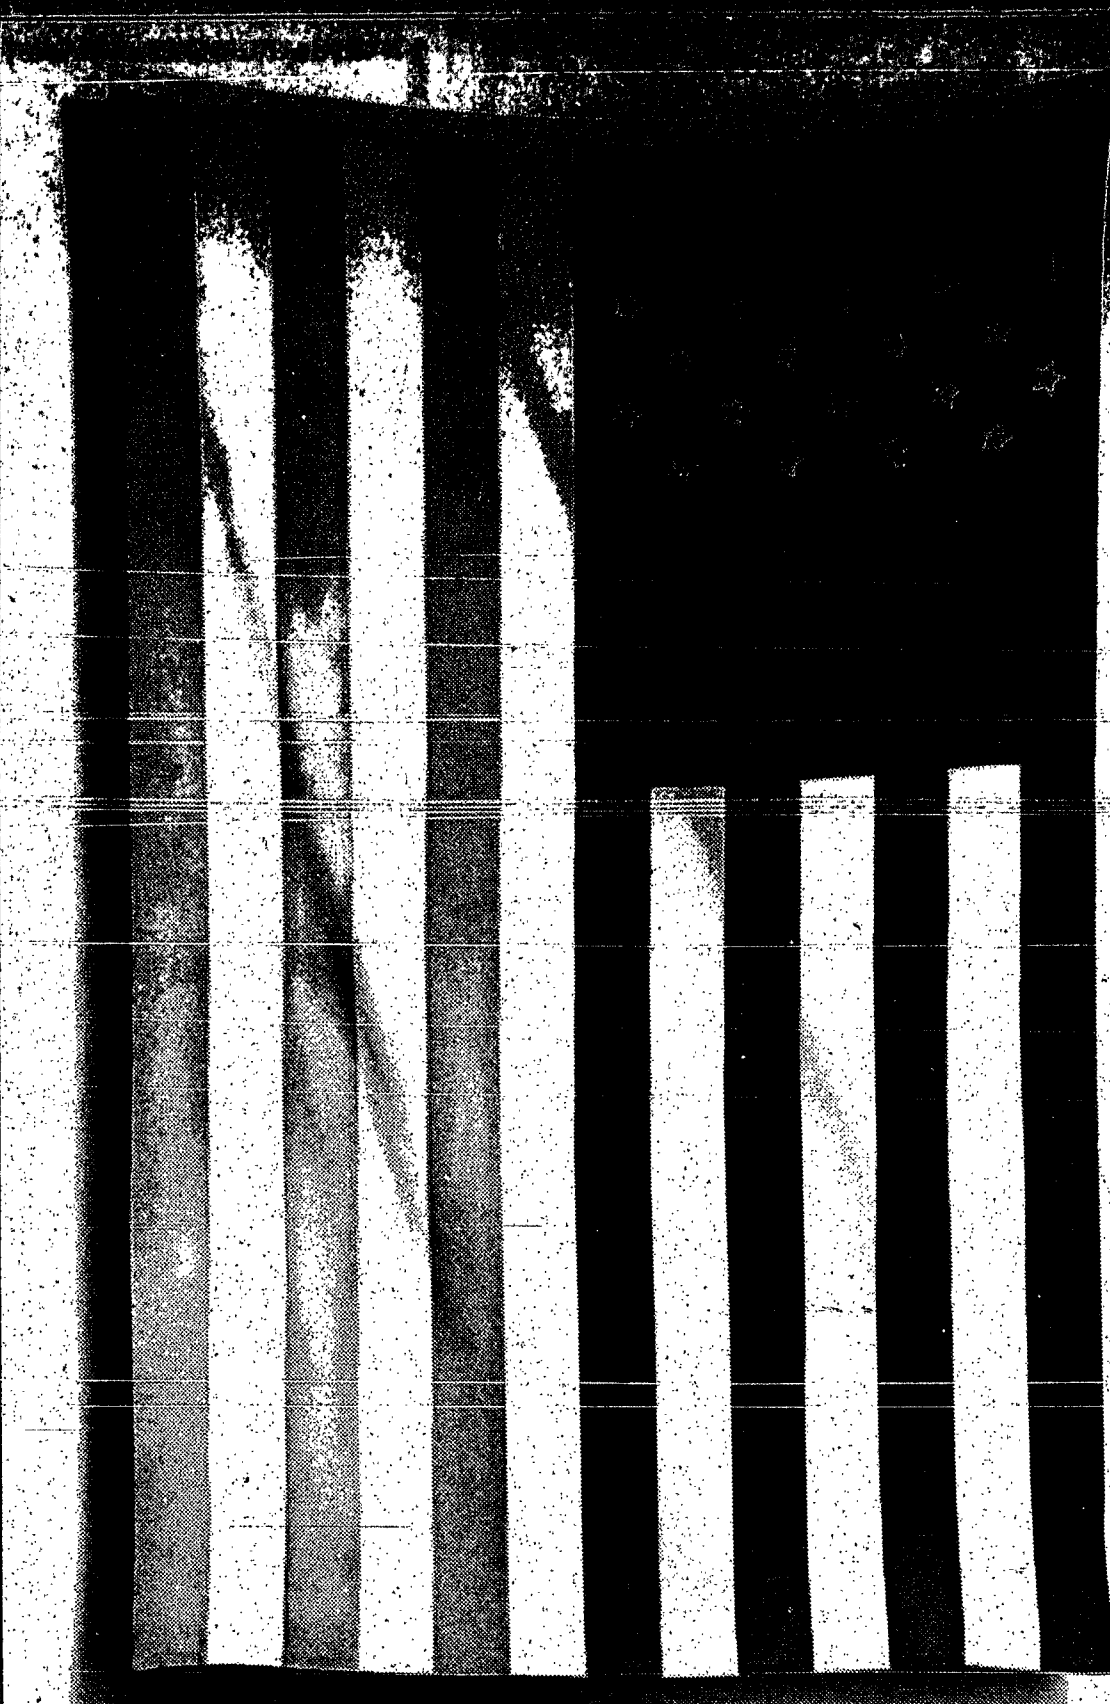

Ross, an attorney, is stressing that the district needs a "credible voice" in the state Senate. He's drawn broad support including the endorsement of U.S. Sen. Thad Cochran and a tacit endorsement from Gov. Fordice.

On the Democratic side, House District 43 incumbent Rep. Bobby Moody, a 12-year veteran from Louisville is reportedly in shaky condition with a strong challenge for his seat. Opposing him for the Democratic nomination is a popular retired state highway patrolman, Clarence Kelley of Louisville. Moody got many state employees up in arms with a remark he made in the 1995 session that many state workers were just "warm bodies" who want a pay raise every year.

Also Democratic incumbent Billy Bowles of Houston in House District 22 is challenged in the Democratic primary by Leon Martin, a wealthy Houston alderman who is widely known in the area for hosting each Thanksgiving and Christmas a free dinner for dozens of people.

Ahead in the November general election, Sen. Crowell H. Armstrong of Houston, who switched to the Republican ranks following his election as a Democrat four years ago, will have a rematch with former Sen. Jack Gordon of Okolona, the Democrat he unseated in 1991. Gordon, who served three terms in the Senate before he was upset by Armstrong, is gunning for revenge. He already has the Democratic nomination.

BIPEC (Business and Industry Political Educational Committee), which gets involved every term in backing or opposing certain legislative candidates, has targeted for defeat four House Democrats they contend have not supported their program. Among them are Reps. Ayres Haxton of Natchez, Diane Peranich of Pass Christian, Bennett Malone of Carthage and Joe L. Warren of Mt. Olive, all of whom have Republican opponents in November.

Senate approves military projects

The Senate Defense Appropriations Subcommittee has approved more than $5 billion in funding for Navy shipbuilding and other military projects which will benefit Mississippi, according to Senator Thad Cochran.

Among the programs and construction projects that were funded are:

- * $1.3 billion for construction of LHD-7, an amphibious assault ship to be built at Ingalls Shipbuilding in Pascagoula.

- * $3.58 billion for construction of four DDG-51 Arleigh Burke-class destroyers which will be built at Ingalls and Bath, Maine.

A Weekly Editorial From Mississippi

Economic Council There's news for Mississippi

If Mississippians are walking a little taller, with a new spring in their steps, a new air of confidence, it's understandable.

There's good news for Mississippi.

The state is enjoying a robust economy, personal income is rising, and consumer confidence continues strong.

That's the very positive report from Deposit Guaranty National Bank's quarterly economic review.

This is what's happening in Mississippi:

1. For 1994, Mississippi's per capita personal income grew by 7.4 percent, the highest rate of growth among the southeastern states and fifth highest in the nation. Per capita personal income growth for the nation as a whole was at 4.7 percent.

2. Mississippi's per capita income, now at $15,838, is at 73 percent of the national average of $21,809 — up from just 67 percent in 1990.

3. The rate of unemployment in Mississippi for the first three months of 1995 was at 5.3 percent, compared to 5.5 percent for the nation.

4. Mississippi enjoyed strong performances from all economic sectors in 1994 — construction, manufacturing, service industries, and agriculture. And while economic growth is expected to slow during 1995, prospects are good for another banner year.

5. Most importantly, consumer confidence continues at a high level, with Mississippians optimistic about both short-term and long-term growth.

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

Eavesdropping on a conversation the gruesome twosome were having with a friend reminded me of some of the political campaigns going on lately. It suddenly dawned on me that society is turning our children into perfect campaign managers, with an uncanny knack for insulting.

The conversation started off innocently enough with all three youngsters laughing and joking, obviously enjoying each other's company and a large pepperoni pizza. However, it wasn't long before my nine-year-old son Jimmie launched into an insult attack on his sister and her friend.

The conversation deteriorated into something like this: Jimmie: English, you're so skinny you use a Cheerio for a hula hoop.

English: Yeah, well Jimmie you're so skinny, that time you swallowed a marble you looked you were nine months pregnant.

Jimmie: Yeah, well you have a friend that is so fat that when she sat on a rainbow, skittles popped out.

English: Well, you have a friend that is so fat he uses the equator for a belt.

Jimmie: Oh yeah, your friend is so fat she uses a highway as a slip'n'slide.

English: Well, your friend is so fat that when he went to weigh himself, the scales read "to be continued."

Jimmie: Your friend is so fat that when she jumped up, she got stuck in mid-air.

English: Jimmie, you're so stupid that when I said "it's chilly outside," you went and got a bowl.

Jimmie: You're so stupid you got lost in a telephone booth.

English: Yeah well, you're so stupid you tripped over the cord on a cordless phone.

Jimmie: Well, you're so stupid you went to a movie theatre and it said no one under 17 allowed, so you went home and got sixteen of your friends.

English: Jimmie, you're so

Gruesome twosome talk

ugly you walked into Taco Bell and everybody ran for the border.

Jimmie: You're so ugly that you went to a haunted house and came out with a job application.

I was frozen against the kitchen cabinet, unable to decide if I was ashamed or proud of them. On the one hand, I was a bit disappointed that they were so good at insulting each other, but on the other, I was happy they had learned to use words instead of fists to battle. I asked them where they learned all those one-liners, knowing that it wasn't from me. Their answer, of course, was school.

Praise for do-gooders this week goes out to folks who settle scores without using violence.

Fair Representation for All

Dear Voter:

Hancock County stands before the threshold of a future that holds a vast horizon of promise and progress. To cross this threshold, the people of our county must decide if the ways of the past are suited to reap the benefits of the future. For too long representation has meant one thing for a select few and quite another for the majority. If we hold on to this system, our county will carry an unnecessary burden of injustice into a future full of promise.

The problems that we face are many but not insurmountable. Preferential treatment for a few serves only to compound those problems. I represent the only true choice for change, republican or democrat, to a system that is biased and unfair. If elected, my office will serve all my constituents to the utmost of my ability, regardless of who they know.

If we accept the promise and the challenges that the future holds, let us do so without the baggage of the past, that has stifled progress and undermined our reputation. Vote for a change, vote for fairness to all.

Walker said. "There was no documentation or testimony presented that personnel were knowledgeable about educating children with autism."

However, he added that Richardson "obtained passing grades and the honor roll during the 1993-94 and 1994-95 school years. Passing grades and honor roll status were based on (Richardson's) achievement of regular education curriculum goals and objectives."

Walker ordered the district to provide Occupational Therapy, Sensory Integration Therapy, and services. He said the amount and duration of the OT/SIT services are to be decided by an IEP team with participation from an occupational therapist.

"There would appear there may be contradictions in the rulings," Tisdale said. "The attorney feel like on some issues, there may be grounds for an appeal."

Tisdale's appointment of Baldree brings to a close a saga that began in February when the superintendent recommended Baldree's contract not be renewed.

Baldree appealed to the board, which voted to reinstate the administrator.

Tisdale's dilemma came in finding a slot for Baldree, since the junior high school was eliminated. Board President Linda Penrose and member Frank Penicariro had discussed dissolving the merger, and returning to the traditional junior high school model.

However, apparently there is not enough of support from the other three board members since the idea has been discussed in the last two meetings. School begins Aug. 14.

Tisdale said he notified Baldree in writing of his appointment.

"I would hope the matter is settled," he said. "We need to get about the business of educating our kids."

Tisdale said if Baldree feels like he's been aggrieved by the appointment, he may file an appeal.

Tisdale said he "assumes" the junior high issue has been dropped.

The board does not have to approve Tisdale's recommendation since it was the filling of a vacancy.

We've Changed The Signs. Not The Service.

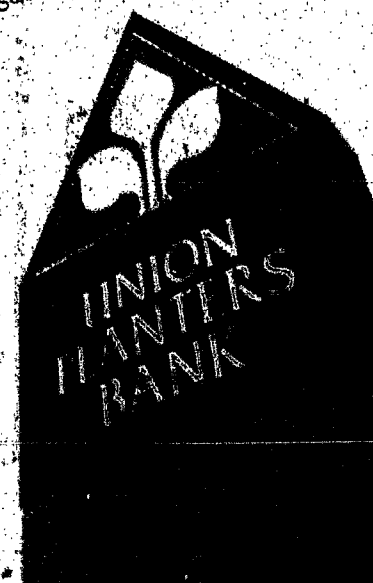

Aside from a few new signs, not much has changed since Sunburst became Union Planters Bank.

There's the same friendly service. The same can-do attitude. And people are even using the same Sunburst checks.

Of course, some things have changed for the better. Customers now have the confidence that comes from doing business with a $10 billion bank. And soon you'll have access to a wealth of new products and services to help make your life a little easier. Hopefully, a little more prosperous, too.

So stop by, and we'll introduce you to our new way of doing things. Which, coincidentally, happens to be the old way of doing things.

Clayton claims vacant WBU title; Harper, Butterbean remain undefeated

A hook to 'Butterbean'

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
Boxing returned to the Magic Dome at Casino Magic on Friday night before a national television audience. The bouts were televised live on ESPN with a world title draw the featured matchup.

Aristead Clayton took on Alejandro Sanabria for the vacant WBU Global Superbantamweight title. The fight went the full 12 rounds with Clayton claiming the title.

Clayton staggered Sanabria in the second round with a strong left hook. Sanabria answered with stiff jabs. In Round 4, Clayton cut Sanabria's eye with two strong left hooks. Sanabria held on but not without suffering a barrage of body blows by Clayton to end the round.

The fighters settled into their strategy until Round 9 when Clayton provided the excitement. Clayton caught Sanabria with an uppercut as he came in low, knocking Sanabria to the mat.

About five seconds, after the referee administered the count, Clayton connected with a hook that sent Sanabria back to the mat. Sanabria returned his own punishment with a volley of body blows that stung Clayton.

For the remainder of the fight, the two boxers exchanged jabs. Clayton claimed the unanimous decision and upped his record to 13-0 with nine KO's.

In the other co-main event, the match was declared a technical draw. The fight between Tommy "School Boy" Parks and Kevin "The Flushing Flash" Kelley was called 1:19 into the second round when Parks and Kelley headbutted. The headbutt caused a severe cut to the eye of Parks, which rendered him unable to complete the fight.

The fight was shaping up to be the card's best. The action came early in the first round when Kelley received a standing 8-count after Parks delivered a strong shot to the chin. Then Kelley staggered Parks with a vicious right hook.

In other action, local favorite Tommy Harper scored a TKO in the fifth round over Kerry Parks in the Cruiserweight division.

In the first round, Harper was stunned with a right hook by Parks. The second round saw Harper's eye get cut. He was also stunned by a hard body blow.

A flurry of jabs by Parks sent Harper to the mat in the third round.

Harper landed a series of punches in the fourth round that staggered Parks. In the fifth, Harper went for the kill when he trapped Parks in the corner. A vicious landing of body blows and hooks forced the referee to call the fight at 2:42 of the fifth round. Harper is 8-0, all knockouts.

In the Jr. Welterweight division, Pedro Saiz scored a TKO over Troy Crain at 1:15 of the second round.

Crain staggered to his corner after the first round due to a series of combinations and hooks to the face.

The second round saw a barrage of hooks and combinations from Saiz. The referee gave Crain a standing 8-count but then called the fight.

The Heavyweight fight seemed to be the crowd favorite as Eric "Butterbean" Esch took on Doug Norris. Butterbean scored a KO at 1:19 of the second round to up his record to 7-0, with 5 KO's.

Each weighed in at an incredible 312 pounds. In the first round, Norris landed several body blows but Esch barely flinched. The two fighters ended the first round slugging it out on the ropes to chants of "Beam! Beam!"

In the second round, the two fighters stood toe-to-toe and threw a barrage of punches at each other. Norris was caught by a hard hook from Esch and fell to the mat.

The finale pitted Jeff Williams of West Monroe, LA, against Ray Berry from Pensacola.

The fight went the full distance of six rounds and Ray Berry won a unanimous decision.

The two fighters exchanged jabs and body blows until the sixth round. In the sixth, Berry stung Williams twice but was unable to score the KO as Williams held him off until the end of the fight.

Service awards

Dastugue, Ripley, Woodson are 'Making Mississippi Move' award winners

Two years ago, the Mississippi Municipal Association gave its first 'Making Mississippi Move' awards as a way of recognizing programs and individuals who have helped move Mississippi communities in a more positive direction.

An individual, municipality or community program may be nominated for any noteworthy achievement that has improved the quality of life in a municipality.

Hillary Dastugue of Waveland is one of eight winners of the 1995 MMA's Making Mississippi Move awards. Dastugue began his volunteer service for the City of Waveland when the city established its Hospitality center in 1973.

He enlisted his friends in the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) to help him man the center while he traveled up and down the Coast for the information on the area that they could share with visitors.

Dastugue soon became the source of information about the benefits of living in Waveland. Dastugue continues to coordinate the efforts of 20 RSVP volunteers who man the center six days a week.

The average age of the volunteers is 70. Dastugue trains them how to give the correct directions, what menus are available at Waveland restaurant, where visitors can find antiques and art and the easiest route to the Waveland beach.

Other winners were Carole Ripley and Mary Woodson of Bay St. Louis. Together they own and operate a small neighborhood restaurant downtown.

They adopted a family for Christmas through the South Mississippi Family Child Center and began taking donations from their customers for their family. The response from their customers was so overwhelming that they decided to adopt two more families.

The restaurant also furnished a Christmas dinner for their adopted families. What began as one family being helped grew into a much larger whole community effort because of two women who saw a need they could meet.

For their accomplishments in helping their fellow Mississippians, the MMA salutes Carole Ripley and Mary Woodson of Bay St. Louis.

August programs of Gulf Islands National Seashore

Gulf Islands National Seashore continues its summer programs for kids and adults during the month of August.

Superintendent Jerry Eubanks says this month's schedule includes a mixture of new programs and old favorites about Mississippi's barrier island and Gulf Coast.

Topics include dolphins, alligators and bald eagles and can be seen free at Davis Bayou in Ocean Springs.

Come to the Visitors Center Sunday, Aug. 6, and Discover Dolphins. Gulf Coast natives see these bottle-nosed dolphins every day, but what do we really know about Flipper's cousins?

Do dolphins really see with sound? What does a dolphin eat? Are they as smart as we are? Find out at 2 p.m. in the Visitor Center Auditorium.

Experience Life on the Edge during the Sunday program Aug. 13. Where land and sea meet, such as here on the Coast, amazing numbers and varieties of plants and animals can be found.

Discover the very unique Gulf of Mexico and how we can protect its natural treasures at 2 p.m. in the Visitor Center Auditorium.

Can you name the endangered animals disappearing today from the Magnolia State? How's the bald eagle and alligator doing these days? Learn how plants and animals become endangered and which threatened species may disappear here in Mississippi at 2 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 20.

Set aside Sunday, Aug. 27 for an easy-going Marsh Walk on the boardwalks and sidewalks of David Bayou. We'll stay in the shade as we look for the plants and animals that make the salt marsh home.

Davis Bayou and the William M. Colmer Visitor Center are located off Hwy. 90 East in Ocean Spring. All programs are free and last about an hour. For information, 875-9057.

Oseola McCarty donates $150,000 to USM

By Sharon Wertz

Oseola McCarty's lined, brown hands, now gnarled with arthritis, bear mute testimony to a lifetime spent washing and ironing other people's clothes. Less evident is how this quiet, 87-year-old black woman came to donate $150,000 to the University of Southern Mississippi.

"I want to help somebody's child go to college," Miss McCarty said. "I just want it to go to someone who will appreciate it and learn. I'm old and I'm not going to live always."

McCarty's gift establishes an endowed Oseola McCarty Scholarship, with "priority consideration" given to those deserving African-American students enrolling at the University of Southern Mississippi who clearly demonstrate a financial need.

"This is just extraordinary," said USM President Aubrey Lucas. "I don't know that I have ever been as touched by a gift to the university as I am by this one. Miss McCarty has shown great unselfishness and sensitivity in making possible for others the education she never had."

Bill Pace, executive director of the USM Foundation, which will administer McCarty's gift, said, "This is by far the largest gift ever given to USM by an African-American. We are overwhelmed and humbled by what she has done."

McCarty's gift has astounded even those who believe they know her well. The customers who have brought their washing and ironing to her modest frame home for more than 75 years read like the social register of Hattiesburg. She has done laundry for three generations of some families. In the beginning, she said, she charged $1.50, to $2 a bundle, but, with inflation, the price rose.

"When I started making $10 a bundle — I don't remember when... sometime after the war — I commenced to save money," she recalled. "I put it in savings. I never would take any of it out. I just put it in. It just accumulated."

Actually, she started saving much earlier. McCarty, seated in her small, neat living room — the linoleum floor gleaming, a spotless pink bedspread pinned carefully over the sofa — related her story quietly and matter-of-factly.

Born in Wayne County, N.C., on March 7, 1908, she was raised by her mother, Lucy, who moved to Hattiesburg when Oseola was very young. Her mother, she recalls, worked hard to support her young daughter.

"She cooked for J. S. Garraway, who was Forrest County Circuit Clerk, and... she would go to the school house and sell candy to make money. She would leave me alone. I was scared, but she didn't have no choice. I said then that when I could, I would save money so I could take care of my grandmother," she said.

McCarty went to school at Eureka Elementary School. Even as a young child, she worked, through, and her savings habit started early.

"I would go to school and come home an iron. I'd put money away and save it. When I got enough, I went to First Mississippi National Bank and put it in. The teller told me it would be best to put it in a savings account. I didn't know. I just kept on saving," she said.

When McCarty was in the sixth grade, her childless aunt had to go to the hospital, and, McCarty said, "I had to go and wait on her. When she came out of the hospital, she couldn't walk, and she needed me."

McCarty never returned to school.

"All my classmates had gone off and left me," she said, "so I didn't go back. I just washed and ironed."

Over the years, she put money into several local banks. While banks merged and changed names and management, McCarty's savings grew.

Her grandmother died in 1944, her mother died in 1964, her aunt died in 1967, "and I've been havin' it by myself since then," she said.

Her mother and her aunt each left her some money, which she added other savings. In 1947, her uncle gave her the house in which she still lives.

Bank personnel, realizing that McCarty was accumulating sizeable savings, advised her to put her money into CD's, conservative mutual funds and other accounts where it would work for her.

Meanwhile, McCarty washed and ironed and lived frugally. She has never had a car and still walks everywhere she goes. She shows a visitor the shopping cart she pushes to Big Star, more than a mile away, to get groceries. For the visitor's benefit, she turns on the window air conditioner. Bank personnel only recently persuaded her to get.

Nancy Odom and Ellen Vinzant of Trustmark Bank have worked with McCarty for several years, not only helping her manage her money but helping look after her personally. It was they who helped her get the air conditioner. They also were concerned about what the future held for her.

"We both talked with her about her funds and what would happen to her if something happened," said Odom. "She knew she needed someone to take care of her."

McCarty, who never married, said, "After my aunt died, I began to think, I didn't have nobody. I began to think about what to do with what little I had. I wanted to leave some to some cousins and my church. But I had been thinking for a long time... since I was in school... I didn't know how to fix it, but I wanted to give it to the college (USM). They used to not let colored people go out there, but now they do, and I think they should have it."

Odom and Vinzant referred McCarty to Paul Laughlin, Trustmark's assistant vice president and trust officer.

"In one of our earliest meetings, I talked about what we could do for her," Laughlin said. "We talked about providing for her if she's not able. Then we turned naturally to what happens to her estate after she dies."

"She said she wanted to leave the bulk of her money to USM, and she didn't want (anybody) to come in and change her mind. I called Jimmy Frank McKenzie, her attorney — she's done laundry for him for years — and he talked to her. He made sure it was her idea. Then I met with her to let her decide how to divide her money up."

McCarty said, "Mr. Paul laid out dimes on the table to explain how to divide it up."

Laughlin said, "I got 10 dimes (to represent percentages). I wrote on pieces of paper the parties she wanted to leave her money to and put them on the table. Then I asked how she wanted her money to be split up. She put one dime on her church and one each for several relatives. Then she said she wanted the rest — six dimes — to go to the college."

"She was quite definite about wanting to give 60 percent to USM. To my knowledge, she has never been out there, but she seems to have the best of the students in mind. The decision was entirely hers."

"I just want the scholarship to go to some child who needs it, to whoever is not able to help their children," McCarty said. "I'm too old to get an education, but they can."

McCarty signed an irrevocable trust agreement, stating her wishes for her estate and giving the bank the responsibility for managing her funds.

"Mr. Paul gives me a check, and I can go get money anytime I need it. My lawyer gave them permission to take care of me if something happens to me," she said.

Laughlin said the bank normally keeps such transactions in strictest confidence, but because of the uniqueness of McCarty's story, he asked for her permission to make it public.

"Well, I guess that would be all right," she said with her typical calm acceptance.

"She seems wonderfully at peace with where she is and who she is," Laughlin said.

McCarty's arthritis in her hands forced her to retire from washing and ironing in December 1994, at the age of 86. Now she spends her days cleaning house, and she still walks everywhere she goes.

She is taking others' excitement over her gift with the same quiet grace that she has taken all the bad and good that have come into her life.

By the numbers

Painter Thomas Wallace puts the finishing touches on bow numbers for DDG 69 "Milius" in preparation for launch and Aug. 5 christening. Milius is the ninth of 14 Aegis guided missile destroyers being built for the U.S. Navy by Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton Industries, Pascagoula.

New Aegis destroyer to be christened 'Milius' at Ingalls Shipbuilding

The heroic actions of a Vietnam-era Navy pilot will be honored in Pascagoula Aug. 5 when a new U.S. Navy DDG 51 class Aegis guided missile destroyer is christened at Ingalls Shipbuilding division of Litton Industries.

Annette Milius, of Topeka, Kan., daughter of the ship's namesake, will christen DDG "Milius" in honor of her father, Navy pilot Captain Paul Milius (1928-1968). DDG 69 is the ninth Aegis destroyer to be launched and christened of ships contracted to Ingalls. On Feb. 27, 1968, Captain Milius was piloting an OP-2E observation aircraft on an armed reconnaissance mission over Laos. While firing on a preassigned target, the aircraft was hit by anti-aircraft artillery fire. Captain (then-Commander) Milius elected to remain at the controls of his badly damaged aircraft, maintaining stable flight, and ordered seven crew members to bail out, all of whom were rescued.

Just before the aircraft crashed, Milius also bailed out, but rescuers were unable to locate him. Capt. Milius was declared Missing In Action (MIA). On April 26, 1978, his status was revised to Presumed Killed In Action (PKIA). He was posthumously awarded the Navy Cross.

Among the honored guests at Saturday's christening will be Capt. Milius' son, David, of Cranbury, N.J., and other relatives, as well as four surviving crew members from his final flight.

The public is invited to attend the 10 a.m. ceremony at Ingalls' facilities on the west bank of the Pascagoula River. Bus transportation will be provided from the shipyard's west bank parking lots to and from the ceremony site. Guests are requested to be at Ingalls by 9:15 a.m.

Dr. John P. White, Deputy Secretary of Defense, will deliver the principal address. Other ceremony participants will include Admiral Richard C. Macke, USN, Commander in Chief, U.S. Pacific Command; Rear Admiral George A. Huchting, USN, Navy Program Manager for Aegis; Wade R. Sanders, Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Reserve Affairs; Capt. Joseph A. Carnevale, USN, Supervisor of Shipbuilding, Conversion and Repair, Pascagoula; Commander Chris Nichols, USN, DDG 69's Prospective Commanding Officer; and Jerry St. Pe, Senior Vice President of Litton and President of Ingalls Shipbuilding.

The U.S. Navy's Aegis program, of which DDG 69 is the newest ship, is one of the most important shipbuilding programs in America today. Aegis ships are designed to provide primary protection for the Navy's battle forces.

DDG 69 is 505 feet long, with a beam of 66 feet. Four gas turbine engines will power the 8,850-ton ship to speeds in excess of 30 knots. Milius will join the U.S. Pacific Fleet, homeported in San Diego, Calif., following commissioning in 1996.

DDG 69's Aegis Combat System, the world's foremost naval weapons system, includes the AN/SPY-1D phased array radar; the MK 41 Vertical Launching System (VLS), which fires a combination of up to 90 Standard surface-to-air, Tomahawk surface-to-land and VLA antisubmarine rockets; and the AN/SQQ-89 Antisubmarine Warfare System, with a bow-mounted AN/SQS-53C sonar and AN/SQR-19 towed array.

Milius will have Harpoon antiship missile launchers and MK 32 torpedo tubes, both mounted on the ship's deck, as well as MK 15 Phalanx Close-In Weapon Systems and a five-inch, rapid-firing deck gun. DDG 69 also features the Lamps MK III Antisubmarine Warfare Control System, with landing and replenishment facilities for the SH-60B helicopter.

Aegis destroyers have been designed to match maximum survivability with potent offensive capability. In the Aegis destroyer program, the Navy returns to all-steel construction, and extensive topside armor is placed around vital combat systems and machinery spaces. Acoustic, infrared and radar signatures have been reduced, and a comprehensive Collective Protection System guards against nuclear, chemical or biological agents.

Ingalls brings to the destroyer program a wealth of experience in the Aegis program. As lead shipbuilder for the Navy's first Aegis shipbuilding program, the Ticonderoga (CG-47), Class of Aegis guided missile cruisers, Ingalls built and delivered 19 of the 27 ships in the cruiser program.

The shipyard's first five Aegis destroyers are now in the Fleet. Lead shipbuilder for five of the latest classes of Navy surface combatants, Ingalls has delivered 69 major surface warships into the Navy's Fleet since 1975, a major portion of the surface combatants delivered during the period.

Supervisors to honor veterans

1995 is the 50th anniversary of the end of WW II, and supervisors have been involved all year in paying special tribute in their local communities to the memory of those killed in action, the commemoration of the end of WW II and saluting all veterans.

Recognizing the great service and sacrifices given by the people who fought for the freedoms we all hold so dear, supervisors feel it would be fitting to end the 1994-95 year with a commemorative service at their annual banquet.

Magna Bancorp Inc. reports results, dividend

Magna Bancorp Inc. (NASDAQ - NMS:MGNL), the Mississippi-based holding company of Magnolia Federal Bank for Savings, reported consolidated net earnings of $5.8 million, or $0.81 per share, for the quarter ended June 30, 1995, compared to $3.4 million, or $0.48 per share, for the same period in 1994.

Net earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1995 were $19 million, or $2.67 per share.

Excluding the cumulative effect of accounting changes, earnings for the year ended June 30, 1994 were $15.6 million, or $2.19 per share.

The cumulative effect of accounting changes from the adoption of two new accounting standards, Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 109, "Accounting for Income Taxes," and Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 115, "Accounting for Certain Investments in Debt and Equity Securities," increased fiscal 1994's net earnings by $3.9 million to $19.5 million.

Robert S. Duncan, Magna's chairman and CEO, commented, "This quarter concludes a very successful fiscal year for our company. Earnings were consistently strong despite the flattening of the yield curve."

"The decline in our net interest margin that resulted from higher short-term interest rates was mitigated by higher yields on our portfolio of adjustable rate loans and additional fee income."

Net interest income for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1995 was $62.7 million compared to $60.7 million for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1994. Net interest margin was 6.22 percent of average earning assets for the year ended June 30, 1995 compared to 6.47 percent for the same period a year ago.

Duncan commented further, "Lower long-term interest rates in recent months have sparked a resurgence in mortgage financing, but it is hard to predict how long interest rates will remain at these favorable levels. Action by the Federal Reserve earlier this month to lower short-term interest rates was initially favorable to the cost of the company's short-term deposits and borrowings.

We are aware that the underlying strength in the economy may re-ignite inflation concerns and cause rates to rise later this year."

Non-interest income was $35.2 million for the 12-month period ended June 30, 1995, compared to $24 million for the same period a year ago. Increases were realized in fees on checking accounts and loan servicing income.

Reduced amortization of the cost of purchased mortgage servicing rights resulting from lower estimates of prepayments on loans serviced was partially responsible for the $12.1 million net loan servicing gain reported in the current period compared to the $4.4 million net gain in the prior year.

Non-performing assets increased slightly during the three months ended June 10, 1995 to $28.4 million, or 2.45 percent of total assets, from $28.2 million, or 2.31 percent of total assets, at the beginning of the quarter.

Magna Bancorp Inc. also declared a regular 10 cents per share quarterly cash dividend payable on or about Aug. 18, 1995 to shareholders of record on Aug. 1, 1995.

Magnolia Federal, a subsidiary of Magna Bancorp, operates through a network of 60 retail offices in Alabama and Mississippi and five mortgage loan origination offices. It is Mississippi and Alabama's largest thrift with capital that exceeds all current regulatory capital requirements. Deposits of the institution are insured up to applicable limits by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Financial Focus

Goals and Objectives

(Submitted by Craig Foster of Edward D. Jones, Co.)

Investing is a process. We must determine what we want our investments to do for us. When we invest, we're using money in the hope of making more money. I seldom receive any argument over this. However, the money we use for investing should be extra money — money that represents surplus savings or income not needed for essentials.

We might choose to invest these funds in mortgages, real estate, life insurance or securities (stocks and bonds). They're all basically different, and no one fits the needs of every person.

Since we're discussing mainly securities, let's focus on some of the reasons why we might want to invest in stocks or bonds. Many people prefer them because they can readily be bought and sold.

They represent variety and flexibility of interests, as well as absentee ownership or creditor-ship. Securities are obtainable at varying prices, from very low to very high, and small sums of money can be invested at convenient intervals. With the help of a good broker, securities can be selected, sometimes with excellent results, by persons having limited investment backgrounds.

When investing in a security you can profit from it in two major ways. First, you may receive dividends or interest payments which, in theory, are paid to compensate you for the use of your money and any risk you assume. Since the market value of securities fluctuates, you also may profit by buying or selling them.

Investment Term of the Week

Investment — The use of money for the purpose of making more money, to gain income, increase capital or both. Safety of principal is an important consideration.

Hancock Bank adds TDD phone service

The deaf community can now call Hancock Bank Customer Service Department to receive account information or to inquire about other banking products. The installation of a TDD telephone has made this possible.

The TDD telephone is a portable and versatile telecommunications device. The person calling would need their own TDD telephone to communicate with another such as the bank's. In calling, the customer receives an automatic answering message to let them know that they have reached Hancock Bank's Customer Service Department.

When the caller begins to type, their incoming message is then printed on the bank's TDD telephone device. The customer and the bank's customer service representative then takes turn typing questions and answers during their conversation using some shorthand signs to communicate the message.

When the call is complete, the customer just hangs up. This service is available to all hearing impaired customers in the bank's four county service area by calling (601) 870-5095, Monday through Thursday, 7 a.m.-5 p.m., and on Fridays, 7 a.m.-5:30 p.m.

HORO- SCOPES

July 30-August 5

ARIES - March 21/April 20
Slow down, Aries. Yes, there's a lot to do, but take it one day at a time. Prioritize work-related projects. Good news heads your way in terms of romance. Money is tight over the weekend. A half-hearted invitation from an in-law is best ignored. You'll learn something new on Friday.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21
Don't let your stubbornness get in the way of good sense. Give in to the advice of a good friend. Lay low on Tuesday. A compliment to a female family member goes a long way. Stay close to home as the week ends. Keep track of spending and remember upcoming financial obligations.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
Both sides of your personality surface this week. Keeping things in their perspective puts you in control. Challenges at work try your patience on Wednesday. Keep calm. A romantic weekend helps ease your mind. Showing only part of the story can make you look suspicious.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
The summer heat brings you out of your shell. It's a good time to flaunt your quiet charm. Dress to kill on Wednesday and a Libra will take notice. A Leo offers good advice as week closes. An upcoming celebration will require advanced planning. Don't leave things until the last minute.

LEO - July 23/August 23
Stop talking and start doing. This is a good week to put plans into action. A Gemini or Taurus brings you good news at work. Choose your friends carefully. What you see is not necessarily what you get. A new romance may be just around the corner for single Leos.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22
Tell an old friend that you miss her. You'll be glad you did. You must choose between two romantic prospects. Look to a Libra for guidance and support. Honesty goes the distance over the weekend. A work project may be more of a burden than you had anticipated.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23
Stay physically active this week. It will ease stress at work. Planning a move? Don't forget the people at home. A Leo and Scorpio team offer stability through chaos. Good news comes via the mail over the weekend. Risky financial investments should be avoided this week. You may want to curb spending altogether.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22
Having second thoughts about romantic commitment? Don't be afraid to take the plunge. A Capricorn friend will be there to break your fall. Money matters look good midweek. Show a partner that (s)he is important with a special gesture on Saturday. It will go a long way.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21
It's time to mend fences with a Leo. Let your true feelings shine through. Down-time at work allows you to reflect on past mistakes. A new love interest brightens things up on Saturday. Let your guard down. Something big coming up? Remember, careful planning is key.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20
The dull-routine syndrome has started to set in. It's a good week to take a day off. Indulge in outdoor activities over the weekend. Watch your pennies. Unexpected expenses head your way on Saturday. If you're artistically inclined, now's the time to pick up that paintbrush.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18
Fight the urge to run outside and play. It's a good week to concentrate on overdue work. Try to get ahead if you can. Your creativity is overflowing. Focus it in the right direction. Don't lose sight of short- and long-term goals. A Cancer friend will offer solid advice.

PISCES - Feb 19/March 20
Control your emotions this week, Pisces. Nothing is as bad as it seems. A romantic quarrel might get you down on Wednesday. Stand your ground. Giving in will only make things worse in the long run. An Air sign sees things your way. Steer clear of routine this weekend.

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months: Changes are approaching slowly. Sit tight; you'll start to settle around December. A boss or associate pushes you to your limits by spring. Strive to meet his/her needs; it will pay off doubly later. A new romance keeps hum-drum days exciting for single Leos. Married? Take advantage of extra income by planning an exotic vacation with your mate. Quality time will help you find even more to like about each other. A new friend will bring out a different side of your personality this year. (S)he will make you realize strengths you didn't know you had.

Confections In Clay: Nineteenth-Century Bisque Porcelain

ST. AUGUSTINE, FL.-CONFECTIONS IN CLAY: NINETEENTH-CENTURY BISQUE PORCELAIN, an exhibit which explores a long overlooked medium, will open at Lightner Museum in St. Augustine, Florida, on April 22, 1995. Once again the Lightner is raising its attic for a presentation of Victoriana in the Transition Gallery.

Bisque porcelain, often considered the epitome of vulgarity and bad taste, was beloved by the Victorians. Charming figures and groups were made in this medium in the nineteenth century with the most famous ware coming from the Sevres factory as early as the 1750's. Later, every porcelain factory in Europe was producing a great variety of attractive models as the biscuit figures became popular for home decoration. They were often substituted for marble statuettes which were quite costly, and clay figures which were made of less refined material and were therefore less desirable.

"If I were asked to define in a single word what made the Victorian age stand apart from its predecessors, that word would be 'money,'" said James Norbury in The World of Victoriana. It was an age of development and prosperity; good taste was being replaced by "the rattling of the cash drawer," Victorian design and choices have to be viewed against a background of the Industrial Revolution and the ascending middle class.

During the Victorian Era (c. 1837-1901), the middle class had money to spend and accumulated possessions with a fierce determination.

For the most part, Victorian homes were characterized by rooms overflowing with this accumulation. It was a cluttered age and every inch of space had something waiting to fill it: chairs, whatnots, stools and tables, plants and palms, prints and paintings, silver and sculpture, and glass, pottery and porcelain.

The middle classes are generally not creative, but are ambitious and imitative; and many Victorian designs have a strong feeling of copying better things, especially in the manufacture of decorative porcelains. Acquiring possessions and concern for outward display are also middle-class characteristics. The changing of any social structure is reflected in the interpretation of old established forms rather than in new ones, as people caught in the middle of the changing scene seek the reassurance of the known over the unknown. So it was with the Victorians.

Although there is some disagreement among pottery experts, the terms "bisque" and "biscuit figures" define porcelain after its first firing and before glazing. It is sometimes considered an unfinished state midway through the manufacturing process or as another type of decorative porcelain in its own right. The figures were intended to be sold in this unglazed state, as it was thought that adding glaze to the figures blunted the details. Whether left in this stage or hand painted later, as many were, Victorians eagerly collected bisque porcelain along with everything else. These sweet figurines decorated mantle pieces and were placed on the dining room table with the dessert course; precious piano babies held down scarfs and runners on their pianos; wall plaques were fashioned from bisque; and the ware was used for doll parts.

All porcelain figures, regardless of their final stage, are produced from plaster of Paris molds, and bisque figures can be very complex. The component parts—the head, the body, the arms—were sometimes molded separately in many stages and the figure completed by affixing the units together with a liquid porcelain mix called "slip." The molds themselves were produced from a sculptured figure, which may have been hand-carved by a master craftsman, or perhaps a previous piece was simply copied.

Bisque porcelain, in spite of its enormous popularity in the nineteenth century, remains an enigma. Very little has been accomplished in the area of scholarly research, perhaps because the lack of marks creates great difficulty in identifying the makers. Although bisque porcelain has long been the step-child of antiques, there is a renewed interest in collecting it.

Forty pieces from the museum's collection will comprise the exhibit CONFECTIONS IN CLAY: NINETEENTH CENTURY BISQUE PORCELAIN at the Lightner. It will close on November 5th, 1995. Address inquiries to P.O. Box 334, St. Augustine, FL 32085-0334, (904)824-2874.

RESPECT THE EARTH ... ALL OUR LIVES DEPEND ON IT!

LET'S WORK TOGETHER TO BE LITTER FREE!

...the bulk of the ... expenditures included ... to build beachside ... stations in Waveland ... Bay St. Louis, figures given ... county finance officials as ... preliminary estimates. Thurs- ... day, even the supervisors said ... that set-aside was ridiculously ... high.

Supervisor Howard Lizana, ... in fact, said he would support ... outer of any city or county ... official who would spend $210,000 ... a comfort station. And Lizana ... said he's opposed to building a ... boardwalk along the county's ... seawall, using local money to ... match a federal grant. The ... boardwalk, he warned "will cre- ... ate nightmares" in terms of ... maintenance.

Supervisor Micheal Ladner,

...to Cedar Point, ... responsibility of the county ... to have the ... $100,000 ... spent on each com- ... station, and divert the savings ... to the city's renourishment ... program.

In addition, Ladner said the ... county should use $175,000 ... now earmarked for the board- ... walk project on the city beach ... program, bringing the total ... county share to $375,000.

He and other board members ... stressed that the boardwalk ... construction money won't be ... needed until fiscal year 1997 or ... 1998 — so Thursday's action ... doesn't negate that project.

Favre had argued all along ... that the county could do just ... such shuffling to help the city ... out with its immediate project, ... losing nothing in the bargain. ... And Gulf Regional Planning ... Commission officials assured ... the county that there is state ... funding available to help the

...to set priorities, ... said ... planner Jeff Taylor. ... protection ... needs to ... be done.

Taylor said, with state ... help on beach amenities later, "I ... think you can have your cake ... and eat it too."

After the board's ... agreement, Favre convened a ... special City Council meeting to ... get formal approval of a bid ... from River Road Construction ... Co., at $561,418, to build the ... city beach.

River Road's bid would have ... expired Monday, a deadline ... that added urgency to the city ... county financing issue. River ... Road workers have wrapped up ... a dredging project at Port Bien- ... ville, and were ready to demo- ... bilize and leave the area, offi- ... cials said.

Had that happened, it would ... have been the second such blow ... to the city's beach plans.

In May 1994, the T.L. James ... Co., disconnected its dredging ... equipment and left Bay St. ... Louis, after completing 4.4 mil- ... les of beach renourishment ... north of Washington Street.

The city had scrambled to ... piggyback on the T.L. James ... contract with the county, but ... officials couldn't act fast enough ... to congeal the project.

In the 14 months since then, ... the city has found, and won per- ... mitting for, a new sand bar in ... the vicinity of the Bay- ... Waveland Yacht Club. The pro- ... ximity of that sand bar to the ... project site, and the local avail- ... ability of a dredging company, ... put the city in key position to ... attract good prices for the work.

River Road's bid, in fact, was ... $256,000 less than project engi- ... neer William Mitchell had ... estimated.

Still, the city had allocated ... only $250,000 for the project ... this fiscal year. Favre had told ... City Council that unless the ... county could be convinced to ... chip in, the city may have to ... scrap plans to build a new ... senior citizens' center, a major ... ballfield complex, and funding ... for Save Our Children.

Supervisor Ladner had ... reacted strongly to those com- ... ments, saying the county would ... never be the cause of the city ... depriving the elderly and youth ... of Hancock County.

In his meeting with super- ... visors Thursday, Favre repeated ... the possibility that going it ... alone would cause the city to ... take those steps. He also noted ... that the city allocates money to ... projects that benefit a number ... of residents of the unincorpor- ... ated area, including the exist- ... ing senior citizens center.

...the city put up $200,000 ... toward the construction of the ... city-county library, the mayor ... also noted.

Favre said supervisors ... should remember that the coun- ... ty alone has the obligation to ... protect the seawall from ero- ... sion. He said the supervisors ... should be glad that the city is ... willing to help share a part of ... the cost.

Meeting with his own council ... Thursday night, Favre said the ... city shouldn't have too much ... trouble coming up with differ- ... ence between the total project's ... expected cost, $690,000, and ... the now-available city-county ... contribution: $625,000.

The project costs include River ... Road's contract, $561,000; ... construction of two riprap jet- ... ties, $25,000; and a 10 percent ... contingency fund, $58,642.

In addition, Brown and ... Mitchell Inc.'s engineering fees ... total $38,738, but the city ... already has paid the firm ... $13,648 on an hourly basis. ... That sum will be deducted from ... the project total, leaving an ... engineering fee balance of ... $25,090. An extra $20,000 is set ... aside for a resident project ... representative.

While the city has doggedly ... pursued the project for more ... than a year, Thursday night's ... vote on the matter wasn't ... unanimous.

At-large council member ... James Rutherford voted ... against the project, saying the ... relatively high seawall, adjoin- ... ing the new beachfront, will ... amount to a potential legal li- ... ability for the city.

And, said Rutherford, the ... new beach won't last long for ... the investment. "In three to five ... years, it'll be gone," said ... Rutherford of the new beach.

The school district received ... insurance settlements of ... approximately $140,000. The ... three damaged buildings have ... been repainted, and the district ... is in the process of replacing the ... books and computer ... equipment.

Danzez said the purchase ... order was issued immediately, ... and the carpet and tiling — all

Bay St. Louis Summer Tennis Camp

The City of Bay St. Louis Parks and Playgrounds is sponsoring a summer tennis camp at the Bay High School tennis courts. The camp is divided into three age groups, 4-6, 7-9, and 10-12. Casino Magic tennis pro Margaret Lovick-Spink (left) is the instructor. She has also received help from New Orleans pro Roger Euns. The youngsters are learning tennis basics, including the forehand, as the youngster (above) demonstrates.

Photos by Richard Meek

Sometimes, the ball goes over the net; other times straight up.

Campers spend a lot of time practicing the forehand.

Keeping your eye on the ball is most important.

Some youngsters wait for their turn to serve, and take a break from the heat.

Big weights lifted at Powerlifting Nationals

By Gary Smith
Outstanding displays of strength were on the agenda at the 1995 USPF National Powerlifting Championships held July 21-23 in Baton Rouge.

Highlights of the athletic event were the shattering of several world and American records, including "Captain Kirk" Karwowski's amazing 1000-pound squat. The barbell bent like a rubber shaft under the half-ton load.

In the Women's Division, new world records were set by Ann Leverett (97-pound Class Master's Division) with a 336-pound dead lift; Carrie Boudreau (123-pound Class Open) with a 422-pound squat; a 491-pound dead lift and an incredible 1,152-pound total; Kelly (123-pound Class Master's Division) with a 369-pound squat and a 942-pound total; Vicki Steenbrod (165-pound Class Master's Division) with a 1224-pound total.

American records were set by Rachael Moyer (105-pound Class Junior Division) with a 266-pound dead lift; Sandra Mobley (123-pound Class) with a 314-pound squat; Vicki Steenbrod (165-pound Class Master's Division) with a 452-pound squat, a 303-pound bench press, a 468-pound dead lift, and a 1224-pound total.

These new records are true landmarks in women's powerlifting.
In the Men's Division, Kirk Karwowski (275-pound Class Open Division) set world records with a 1003-pound squat and twice increased the record total up to 2304 pounds.
Shane Hamman (Super-heavyweight Class Junior Division) set new world records in the bench press at 551 pounds and the total at 2249 pounds.
The best overall lifters were Carrie Boudreau of the Women's Open Division and Karwowski of the Men's Open Division.
The dedication and determination in the eyes of the near 100 contestants was something to witness, as they defied the force of gravity, pushing themselves to their limits.
Success at this high level of competition requires strength, balance and timing, along with a disciplined lifestyle.
Meet Director Paul Fletcher said he was pleased at the performances of our nation's strongest men and women. Everyone involved worked hard to make the contest a success.
The USPF National Championships, sanctioned by the United States Powerlifting Federation, is considered to be the most competitive in the country. The USPF officials maintain strict regulations governing the powerlifts, the squat, the bench press and the dead lift.
Mandatory testing for strength, including drugs, is enforced to insure fairness between contestants.
When Karwowski was asked why he likes powerlifting, he said, "Ever since I was a little kid, I always thought strength was cool."

Dane & Peneguy poised for run at National Championship

Special to the Echo
The Pass Christian Yacht Club is in contention for the National Championship for Juniors in the three man division. The title for this championship is called the Sears Cup. The team for this year's run at the title is John F. Dane (skipper), W. Oliver Peneguy and William Rush Galloway.

The team has won the Gulf Yachting Association Championship and advanced to the Area D Championship. This championship was held in Hilton Head, South Carolina and they again took first place.

This will be the second trip to the nationals for Peneguy and Dane. Last year, they teamed with Sanders Kane and place third overall in the nationals.
Peneguy, Dane, and Kane are all seniors at St. Stanislaus High School while Galloway is a sophomore at St. John's High School in Gulfport.

Soon, the team will travel to Chicago to represent Area D in the National Championships.

Apply now for local boating safety grants

The BOAT/U.S. Foundation for Boating Safety is now accepting applications from non-profit, volunteer organizations for grants of up to $5,000 for boating safety projects across the USA. The deadline is Nov. 1, 1995. Grants will be awarded in January.

Since 1998, the Foundation's Grassroots Grants Program has awarded over $250,000 to almost 200 volunteer boating groups and other non-profit organizations to support local boating safety projects.

"We are challenging non-profit organizations to find new and creative ways to combat local boating safety problems," said BOAT/U.S. Foundation Director Jim Ellis.

Organizations wishing to receive a Grassroots Grant application packet should write BOAT/U.S. Foundation, 880 South Pickett Street, Alexandria, VA 22304 or call Kristen Lewis at (703) 823-9550.

"For example, the variety of innovative projects we have supported in the past includes a free life jacket loaner program for children in North Carolina, signs encouraging boaters to take a safe boating course in Texas and a boating safety fair in Maryland."

The BOAT/U.S. Foundation for Boating Safety is a non-profit education and research organization funded by voluntary contributions from boat owners.

BALLOT MEASURE
PROPOSED INITIATIVE MEASURE,
SECTION 11-7 State law permits citizens to propose amendments to the Mississippi
Constitution through the initiative process. Before the sponsors of an initiative begin their petition drive, the Secretary of State's office is required to publish the ballot title and ballot summary of the proposed initiative in a newspaper or newspapers of general circulation throughout the state.
References: Section 273,
Mississippi Constitution of 1890.
Miss. Code Ann. Sections 23-17-
1 through 23-17-61. The earliest election at which this proposed initiative may be voted upon is the November 5, 1996 General
Election.
BALLOT TITLE May citizens propose changes in public schools to local school boards which, if denied, could be decided in an election?
BALLOT SUMMARY This amendment would create a right to propose changes in school management policies to local school boards. A school board could not deny a proposal for the reason it would: allow attendance by any student desiring to enroll; compensate teachers and administrators based partly on performance; eliminate regulation; allow hiring of non-certified teachers; or, alter curriculum. Any proposal rejected by the board could be submitted to voters in the same manner as school bond issues.

Business Review

Advertorial

Attention card collectors! There is a new business in town you should visit! The name of this business is Shoestring Catch. Shoestring Catch is located at 108-C Court Street in Old Town Bay St. Louis and caters to the sports card enthusiast.

Steven Walker, owner of Shoestring Catch, carries collectible sports cards, pogs, slammers, phonecards as well as supplies for these items. Collecting began as a hobby for Steven and he later worked and managed a sports card shop for five years. He is very excited to offer this area the hottest, new collectible, phonecards.

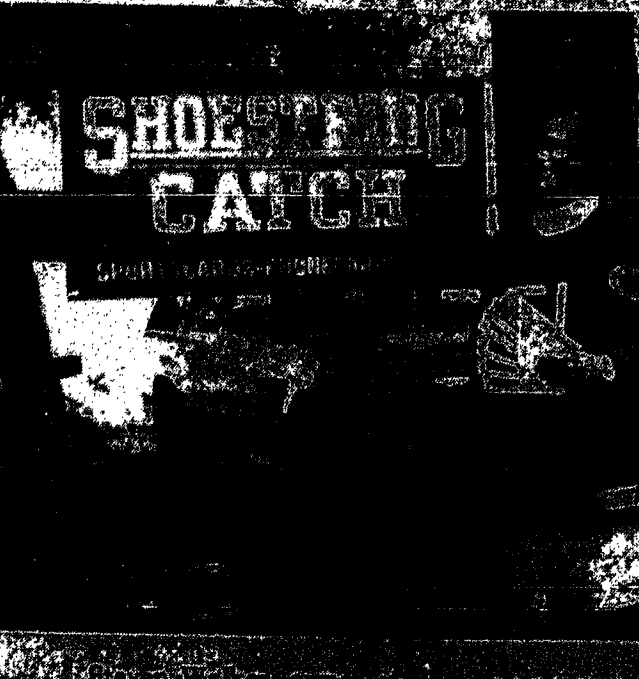

What is a phonecard, you ask. A phonecard represents telephone time which has been paid for in advance. When you visit Shoestring Catch, you will notice that phonecards come in many denominations. They are typically used when you are away from home and they can actually save you money over the long distance phone companies. Phonecards are also convenient; you do not need change when making a call and they are a great way to budget calls. The best thing about phonecards is that they are collectible!

Collecting phonecards is one of the fastest growing hobbies and is brand new to America.

Steven Walker has authorized the Shoestring Catch American premier pre-paid phonecard and is the only authorized premier collector series such as Elvis, Norman Macdonald, and the Legends of the Three Stooges and many many more.

Be sure to visit Shoestring Catch and find out how to collect and invest in this new collectible! It's spreading across the United States at record pace.

You may visit Shoestring Catch Wednesday through Friday from 12:00 to 5:30 and on Saturday and Sunday from 11:00 to 2:00 beginning August 2nd. For more information call Steven at 466-3131 for more information.

Journey of learning...

By Bethany Waldrop Keiper
MSU Ag Communications

The first day of school or kindergarten can be as nerve-wrecking for parents as it is for children. A variety of first-day fears can give parents butterflies as they try to ease their child's worries about school.

"Although the beginning of the school year can be scary time, there are steps parents can take to ease their worries and bridge the gap between school and home," said Dr. Louise Davis, extension child and family development specialist at Mississippi State University.

Davis suggested that parents pull stories from positive memories of their own school days and talk to children about them.

"If parents focus on positive memories and talk about those, it can calm both parents and children," said Davis. "These personal experiences can bridge the gap between home and school."

Try to present school as a time of fun and learning, rather than a task to complete or a job to do, Davis added.

Gathering materials and putting together a memory book along with your child can help

Parents can lessen first-day anxiety

foster positive memories. The book could include favorite activities and pictures from your school days.

Then begin another memory book for children to fill with their own school memories, Davis said.

Even if parents remember all too well their own negative experiences on the first day of school, they should keep these fears from affecting a child's outlook.

"Kids do pick up on our fears, so keep these feelings to yourself," Davis said. "In the meantime, do everything possible to gain a positive outlook before the school year begins."

The first day of school is a milestone in both a parent's and child's life. It leaves many parents and children scared of all of the "unknowns" of the first day of school. But a simple school visit or tour can make a new school a more familiar place.

Davis suggested scheduling a visit to meet with the principal, school secretaries and teachers before the school year begins.

Sending a letter to the child's prospective teacher also can be helpful. The letter can include who you are, who your child is, some of your child's favorite books and activities, things your child is allergic to, emergency numbers and your work schedule.

"Allow the letter to introduce your child in an informal manner," Davis said. "This letter can make you feel better, as well as providing important information."

Another unknown that can worry parents is the question of satisfactory after-school care.

"begin preparing now for after-school arrangements. Check with schools and employers for care programs," Davis said. "Include in these plans the child's after-school transportation."

Sending a short note with your child on the first day of school can have benefits for all.

The note should include your plans for the child's transportation home each day.

Teachers should know who will pick the child up, or which bus the child should ride.

"Even if you are troubled about sending your little one off to their first day of school, keep your concerns in check," Davis said. "Remember to enjoy these steps toward a successful journey of learning."

Registration for 1995-96 school year scheduled

All students expecting to attend Bay St. Louis-Waveland schools in the 1995-96 school year will register at the school to which they are assigned.

Registration will be Aug. 1-4, 8 a.m.-3 p.m., with students to report for their first full day of school Aug. 17.

Kindergarten through third grade students residing in Waveland will attend Waveland Elementary School.

Kindergarten through third grade students residing in Bay St. Louis will attend North Bay Elementary School. Students in grades four through six will attend Bay Middle School, and students in grades seven through 12 will attend Bay High School.

Students who do not know which school they are to attend should call 467-6621.

Students who enter first grade must be 6 years old on or before Sept. 1, 1995; kindergarten students must be 5 years old on or before that date.

Bus information will be available at each school during registration.

The registration process requires that parents sign a residency verification form for either new students or students previously enrolled; a student locator card, giving emergency telephone numbers and other vital information, including names of people who are authorized by the parent to check the child out of school.

These forms may be signed during registration or prior to the beginning of school. No student will be permitted to attend classes until all registration forms have been completed and properly signed.

New students enrolling in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland schools will not be permitted to register unless residency has been verified through proper documentation. Parents must provide the school with a copy of two of the following items of verification of residency: filed Homestead Exemption application form; mortgage documents or property deed; apartment of home lease; utility bills; driver's license listing present address; voter precinct identification; automobile registration; affidavit of residence and/or personal visit by designated school district officials at the district's option.

Students who have previously enrolled in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland Schools need only to complete a verification of residency form, if residency is the same as for the 1994-95 school year. If residency has changed, the entire residency verification process must be completed.

All new students must bring to registration the certificate of immunization compliance from the Health Department or local physician. New students must also bring certified copies of their birth certificates. Report cards and other records of grade placement are necessary to make official grade level assignment.

Lunch forms for free and reduced student lunches will also be available for completion during registration. Parents with questions about the lunch program should contact the Food Service Department at 467-0405.

The public should note that the central administration office work hours will be 7:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. effective August 14.

Montjoy named head of Coast Episcopal Lower School

The board of trustees of Coast Episcopal School has named Mrs. Merry Rea Montjoy head of the Lower School. Montjoy holds a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Mississippi and a master's in education from the University of Southern Mississippi.

She received certification as an academic language therapist from Southern Methodist University. For the past three years Montjoy has been an educational therapist and academic language therapist in private practice. Her professional background includes 18 years as an elementary school teacher and guidance counselor in public and private schools in Louisiana and Mississippi.

"My goal is to capture the excitement and joy of the learning process by creating an atmosphere of open communication, teamwork and school spirit within a Christian environment, Montjoy says. "I want to assure that programs fit the needs of individual students and that these programs are child-centered and spiritually-oriented."

Mrs. Montjoy's professional memberships include the Academic Language Therapy Association, the board of directors of the Orton Dyslexia Society, Delta Kappa Gamma, and the National Association for Children with Learning Disabilities. ## Keep homemade lunches safe and nutritious

By Bethany Waldrop Keiper
MSU Ag Communications

"What do you want to take for lunch today?" is a dreaded question for parents and children alike. But with a little planning, homemade lunches for school can be tasty and safe, as well as nutritious.

Although taking a homemade lunch often is referred to as "brown-bagging it," a paper bag usually is not your best bet for keeping foods fresh.

"An insulated lunch bag or box will keep foods cold longer," said Dr. Barbara McLaurin, extension human nutrition specialist at Mississippi State University. "Frozen gel packs and frozen juice boxes also will keep foods cold — keeping them safe to eat."

For hot foods such as soup, stew or chili, a thermos is your best bet. A thermos rinsed out with boiling hot water immediately before boiling hot food is put in will keep foods hot and safe for hours.

McLaurin stressed the importance of reading labels to make sure the foods sent for lunches are nutritious as well as tasty.

"Check the percent daily values column of the nutrition labels of foods, especially the percentages of fat and sodium," McLaurin said. "By looking at the percent of daily values, you can quickly see if a food is high or low in a nutrient."

McLaurin suggested these economical, easy-to-prepare, nutritious favorites for homemade lunches:

- Fresh oranges, bananas and apples;
- Carrot sticks, green pepper strips and broccoli "trees" with low-fat dip;
- Fresh melon cubes and balls;
- Sandwiches made with lean turkey, ham, beef, or chicken and dark green lettuce;
- Low-fat, non-fat or sweetened yogurt; and
- Skim milk or juice boxes with 100 percent juice.

The nutritionist stressed that all lunches should include servings of fresh fruits and vegetables.

"The recommended minimum number of servings of fruits and vegetables is about five servings per day," McLaurin said. "But according to a recent national child health survey, only 50 percent of kids surveyed had eaten even one serving or no servings in the past day."

If this were a ranking for Olympic Hockey, we would be outraged.

It's time we became just as concerned with how well we compete in the classroom. The fact is, America's schools haven't kept pace with the rest of the world. Our standards are not high enough. Our teachers are undervalued. Our communities need to be more involved. But it's not too late to turn things around. In some places, it's already happening. Find out how together we can bring about the kind of improvement we desperately need. # Young people benefit from after-school involvement

By Anna Minor
MSU Ag Communications
Little league games, dance recitals and band practices turn many parents into chauffeurs, but their children can gain more from these extra activities than just something to keep them busy.

"Students who are involved in extracurricular activities tend to do better in school and the other areas of their lives," said Dr. Ann Jarratt, 4-H youth development specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Young people involved in extracurricular activities tend to have a more positive self-concept than those who are not involved. This positive self-concept carries over into all areas of their lives.

"Young people with a positive self-concept tend to be more involved in clubs and activities because they try new experiences more freely and believe they will be successful," Jarratt said.

"They also are better able to fit in with groups because they are more open to liking other people since they like themselves."

The benefits of extracurricular participation are numerous. Involved students develop strong social and communication skills because they deal with different people in different settings. They also learn to work in groups and to cooperate with other people.

"A main benefit of after-school involvement is the development of responsibility," Jarratt said. "Young people learn they are expected to fulfill their obligations to the club or team."

Parents play an important role in encouraging extracurricular involvement, especially in a child's younger years.

"Parents should encourage their children to explore their interests at a young age to provide more opportunities to develop these interests," Jarratt said. "If you start early with good habits, it pays off in the long run."

Young children need some restrictions on their involvement to prevent them from jumping from one activity to the next. Parents should help their children choose one or two activities that really interest them and encourage them to stick with them.

"If a child does not like an activity, the parents should encourage their child to stick with the activity unless a good reason exists to end it," Jarratt said. "By letting the child quit, parents are condoning a quitter mentality that becomes a pattern of starting and never finishing things."

Parents should allow their children to choose their own activities as long as the proposed activity is wholesome, positive and affordable. If the child decides to do several things, parents should encourage the various interests.

"Some people are more focused and want to do one thing very well," Jarratt said. "But others would rather be involved in several things at a moderate level. Each way is fine as long as the young people are enjoying what they are doing."

Prepare children for first day of school

By Bethany L. Waldrop
MSU Ag Communications

Whether a child is starting daylong kindergarten or first grade, the first day of school can be challenging for both children and parents.

Dr. Louise Davis, extension child and family development consultant at Mississippi State University, said parents can have a definite impact on a child's attitude about a new school.

"The first day is stressful for families, and depending on the parents' attitude, it may be stressful for the child," Davis said. "It marks the beginning of a period of transition in a child's life."

Usually children are excited about the first day, and parents should reflect a positive attitude about the experience.

"The more the parents and child can learn about the new teachers, classes and surroundings before the start of school, the more comfortable they will be on the first day," Davis said.

One important way to prepare is to meet and discuss the new teacher with your child.

"In some areas, new teachers visit children in their homes before the beginning of school," Davis said. "If that is not an option, try to arrange a meeting with the teacher, or call the school for details to share with your child."

Visiting and sending brief notes lets teachers know that parents care about their child's education. A meeting with teachers should be a top priority if a child has special needs.

To further familiarize a child with the new school, call and arrange a tour. Make it a pleasant visit, starting at the bus stop and then going to the school grounds. Walk through the child's day by going to the classroom or assembly area, then to the bathroom, cafeteria and library.

"Since some parents don't have time during the work week to take this tour, an adult friend or relative could take the child inside the school, leaving the school grounds to be explored by parent and child on the weekend or after work," Davis said.

Start planning early for after-school child care, and be sure to discuss these plans with the child before school starts.

"Some school systems in the state provide before- and after-school care for children," Davis said. "Check with your county home economist for information on child care services in your area."

Parents also should check the child's medical record and be sure all shots are up to date. If the child will need a trip to the health department or doctor's office, make the appointment early, since doctor's offices often are crowded just before school starts.

Several weeks before the first day of school, parents should establish an afternoon and evening routine for the child.

"For the beginner, the routine may be a blend of quiet time with books and educational toys, later to become homework time; active playtime; household chores; limited TV time and a consistent bedtime," Davis said.

"Let your child get used to the routine that school will require — don't let it be another new thing to deal with."

Give your child a card or note to take on the first day of school with the names and phone numbers of the child, parents, a friend or relative and the child's bus number and teacher's name.

"During the first few weeks of school, parents should try to be better-than-usual listeners," Davis said. "Encourage the child to open up by using 'feeling' responses instead of asking too many questions."

If the child has a lot of questions about starting school, make sure your answers reflect reality. The more realistic parents are about what school is like, the less surprised the child will be.

Some realistic expectations for children include getting ready to read, hearing new stories and working with other children to learn new things.

Davis suggested that parents look for children's books about the first day of school to help answer some of the child's questions about starting school.

If the child doesn't like school immediately, don't get discouraged — just keep encouraging the child," Davis said.

With the emerging opportunities for new programs in Mississippi community colleges.

Three new medical-rehabilitation programs begin in August. Davis, a pharmacist, said the program will use technology.

The program will provide instruction and clinical work and prepare students as technicians under the supervision of health care outlets such as hospitals.

In this program, students learn about the classification of drugs, their side effects, Federal Drug Administration testing, and of drugs in accordance with vocational training.

He says drugs, general transcription and pharmaceutical calculations as well as preparation, packaging, and services by retail pharmacies. This program is a part of the new curriculum.

genetic counseling areas who are to assist with new information.

Susan Dulin, instructor, said for skilled workers who work in that is at the logical science of the future.

The program is for work specializing in this special area. A student in biotechnology, performing isolation and purification.

The faculty Christian M. like to invite grade students to student to Middle School Orientation Aug. 8 at 1 Christian M.

MGCCC offers five new career training programs

With the goal of targeting emerging employment opportunities for local residents, five new programs will begin on Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College campuses this fall.

Three new programs, in medical-related career areas, begin in August at the Jefferson Davis Campus in Gulfport: pharmacist technician, biotechnology and medical office technology.

The pharmacist technician program combines classroom instruction with laboratory work and clinical experience to prepare students for employment as technicians who work under the supervision of registered pharmacists in hospitals, health care agencies and retail outlets such as drugstores.

In this program, students learn about pharmacology through an overview of drug classifications, common drug side effects, drug use and abuse, Federal Drug Administration testing, and biotransformation of drugs in the human body, according to Wendell Thornton, vocational-technical dean.

He says classification of drugs, generic and trade names, transcription abbreviations, and pharmacy math and dosage calculations will also be taught, as well as methods of drug preparation, packaging and distribution, and the functions and services by the hospital and retail pharmacy. Graduates of this program will earn an associate of applied science degree.

The new biotechnology program addresses the need of researchers in gene therapy, genetic counseling, and other areas who require technologists to assist with the surfacing of new information in this field.

Susan DuBois, the program's instructor, says, "The demand for skilled biotechnologists, who work in an atmosphere that is at the forefront of the biological sciences, will increase in the future."

The program provides training for workers in laboratories specializing in DNA technology. This specialized training leads a student toward a career as a biotechnology laboratory technician, performing duties such as isolation of DNA, DNA fingerprinting, separation of RNA and DNA, genetic engineering, gene mapping and gene sequencing, as well as other duties in DNA technology, DuBois explains. For more information, call DuBois at 896-3355, ext. 247.

The medical office technology program provides training for career opportunities as a medical secretary/transcriptionist in doctors' offices, nursing homes, hospitals and medical care centers. The medical office field needs skilled workers with a good background in medical terminology and medical machine shorthand.

In the medical office technology program, students learn basic medical science, hospital service and paramedical facility terminology. The new program includes instruction in transcription from taped dictation and production of accurate medical reports and records.

For more information call the Jefferson Davis Campus at 896-3355, ext. 169.

At the Jackson County Campus, the industrial maintenance millwright mechanic program trains students to handle a variety of tasks geared toward major craft areas such as welding, pipefitting and industrial systems and equipment. Included are welding, piping systems, hydraulic and pneumatic equipment, benchwork and equipment maintenance.

The program also examines industrial and environmental safety and emphasizes personal and plant safety as it relates to OSHA requirements. Students can begin the program any Monday during the regular school year. For information, call 497-9508.

At the West Harrison County Center in Long Beach, the college-level aquaculture program begins this fall in a specially-constructed facility. An integrated academic and "hands-on" course of study provides students with the basic principles and specific production techniques for important aquaculture crops.

Students learn to use all equipment typically found on a traditional fish farm, as well as in emerging and experimental aquaculture technology, according to Don Christensen, dean at the center.

A wide variety of aquaculture crops, including catfish, freshwater shrimp, bait minnows, crawfish and ornamental fish will be produced in ponds, raceways, cages and tanks.

Biological and mechanical filtration systems, aquaculture's newest frontier, are studied extensively, according to instructors Greg Crochet and Mike Murphy. The program leads to an associate of applied science degree. For information, call 868-6057.

College President Dr. Barry Mellinger says, "New program development is vital to our mission. We must continue to aggressively pursue changes in the world of work and train and retrain local residents for areas where viable employment opportunities exist."

Students may register at Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College August 21-22, and classes begin August 23.

Registration times set at MUW

With the fall semester just around the corner, Mississippi University for Women announces its registration schedule for traditional and non-traditional students on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 21-22.

Students who were not registered in Spring 1995 must be admitted or readmitted to "The W" before they may register for classes. Contact the Office of Admissions at 329-7106 for more information.

Students who have preregistered have two options to complete the registration process — paying all fees with the Comptroller's Office or attending fall registration at the time shown on the class schedule.

Students may finalize payment of fees with the Comptroller's Office only if they do not need to make any schedule changes, have no holds on their records, or have no Perkins of Stafford Loans.

If a preregistered student chooses to attend registration on the date specified on his/her schedule and doesn't have any schedule changes then there is no need to stop by registration in Hogarth Dining Center; instead, go directly to the Financial Aid Station or the Comptroller Station in McDevitt Hall. If schedule changes are needed, pick up the registration card at Hogarth and proceed to the terminal lab in the data center of McDevitt Hall.

Students can preregister for classes until Aug. 16. Full- and part-time students who have been admitted should begin the preregistration process by going to the academic Division in which their major is taught.

Adults and other nontraditional students who wish to attend evening and Weekend College classes should come to or call the Division of Continuing Education on the second floor of Parkinson Hall (329-7137) or at Columbus Air Force Base in the Education and Training Building on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 1:30-5 p.m. (434-2559). Those evening and weekend students who are not preregistered are invited to come to the Continuing Education offices before their scheduled Aug. 21 registration for advice on expediting the registration process. Students who are not preregistered should begin the registration process at the Hogarth Dining Center on the second floor, which has elevator access.

Dominion Christian starts seventh year

Dominion Christian Academy is beginning its seventh year at 819 Central Avenue, Bay St. Louis.

The school serves children from second grade through high school.

The phonics program has a 100 percent success rate in teaching students to read, barring excessive absences.

Math, English, social studies and science are then introduced.

Students coming into second grade are tested for reading skills and may need to be placed in the program before being admitted to the elementary level.

The elementary-high school program is individualized and college preparatory. Students are tested in each subject and placed at achievement level in each subject.

Where a student places in a lower level (typically math and English) special effort is made to strengthen gap areas and bring the student up to grade level on a tutoring one-to-one basis.

The high school level offers all subjects required by Mississippi colleges and junior colleges, as well as colleges in Louisiana and Alabama.

For example, students do not receive credit for general math or general science at the high school level, because these are not accepted as credit courses by the colleges. 21 credits are required for graduation.

Class work is supplemented with computer, and computer literacy is a requirement at the high school level.

Field trips are taken approximately every other month. Uniforms are required.

Tuition for the 1995-96 school year is $1,550, which may be paid in monthly installments. School-supply lists are at Kmart and Wal-Mart. Classes start Sept. 5.

For more information, please call Mr. or Mrs. Delcuze at 467-7149 or 467-6140.

5. Remind your child to always look both ways before crossing the street.

6. Instruct your child to inform you when he or she goes somewhere after school.

7. Review your child's home/school route together, choosing the most populated path. Avoid isolated and heavily wooded areas, when possible.

School expense . . .

Back-to-school expenses can knock the wind out of some families' bank accounts, but delaying some purchases can help soften the blow.

School supplies, clothes and fees can add up to staggering levels if families try to address all back-to-school needs in August, according to Dr. Beverly R. Howell, extension family economics and management specialist at Mississippi State University.

"Clothing is probably the biggest of the back-to-school expenses," Howell said. "Clothing is also one of the easiest expenses to spread out during the school year."

When most parents were growing up, they started school later in the year with new fall clothes. Today's students start much earlier and can usually wear the same clothes they were wearing at the end of the previous school year.

"Clothing budgets for older children can be very educational and beneficial for the family budget as well," Howell said. "Give older children a budget and let them make purchase decisions. Encourage them to look for quality and durability."

Shopping trips for school supplies also can be educational for younger children. Teach them to compare costs and quality and to follow lists.

Cash needs vary from school to school and grade to grade. Tuition, room and book fees, and costs for extracurricular activities can mean larger cash demands than planned. Other potential expenses include locker fees, yearbooks, parking fees, class rings, driver's education costs and lunch money.

"Extracurricular activities can be very expensive. There is nothing wrong with reasonably transferring some of the responsibility to the student," Howell said. "Older children involved in more expensive activities can work off jobs to support some of their interests."

Howell said setting priorities can eliminate some expenses that might not be worth the cost to the student.

"It's also important to set ground rules so children understand their responsibility for their possessions. What if expensive shoes or a band instrument are lost or stolen?" Howell said. "Children have to learn to take care of their possessions."

Delay purchases to ease burdens

Extra efforts develop improved study habits

By Moira Brodnax
MSU Ag Communications.

Studying is the last thing on most students' minds until the night before a big test or just a few days before a major project is due.

The beginning of a new school year is a good time to change bad attitudes toward studying and develop better study habits. This is a chance for students to start over and prove themselves in the classroom, regardless of past performances.

Dr. Ann Jarratt, 4-H youth development specialist at Mississippi State University, said concentration, organization and time management are the keys to successful studying.

"Without concentration, students are only looking at the words or problems on a page — learning is not taking place," Jarratt said.

Prime study environments vary with each student, but the place should promote maximum concentration.

"Most students will find it easier to concentrate at a desk or table with a straight-backed chair in a quiet, well-lighted room," Jarratt said. "The fewer distractions, the better."

Jarratt suggested organizing materials before studying begins.

"Gather all your needed materials and have them within arm's reach, so you will not waste time looking for things once you begin studying," she said. "Remove everything from the study area except what you are working on at that moment to avoid distractions."

Students should organize their priorities and have a set plan of what they need to accomplish during their study time each day.

"Don't wait and try to do your studying all at once," Jarratt said. "Cramming is ineffective — students should begin studying as soon as the concepts are presented and continue with periodic reviews of the material."

The best time of day to study and the length of study depends on the individual. Students should choose their study time based on their most alert time of the day and when they have large slots of time in their schedules to allow for study.

Difficult subjects should be tackled when students are most rested and their minds are fresh.

"Active study, which includes underlining, copying notes and reading out loud, is a good way to strengthen the learning process," Jarratt said.

Some students are self-motivated while others need more help and encouragement from their parents or a tutor. Jarratt stressed that a child's homework or project should never be done by a parent.

"Knowing how to study is a life skill," Jarratt said.

Need new choir robes? Helmets for the football team? How about a new copy machine for the church office? Or bats, balls and baseball gloves for the youth group? Whatever your church, school or charity needs, the Diamondhead Supermarket Friendship Fund can help you get it. It's our way of saying "thanks" for shopping at Diamondhead Supermarket. There's no limit to what you can earn. And it's easy! Simply have all the members of your organization save their Diamondhead Supermarket cash receipts. Your group will receive a one percent rebate of your group's total grocery purchases. For example, say 100 families in your organization each purchase $100 in groceries per week. In just one month, you will have earned a $400 donation. To get your group started, complete and return the application below to your nearby Diamondhead Supermarket Store. At Diamondhead Supermarket we care. That's why we created the Diamondhead Supermarket Friendship Fund. And that's another reason why Diamondhead Supermarket is a nicer place to be.
